PLAN TO BUILD A TABERNACLE

Revival Meeting Committees Making
Plans in That Direction at Present.

CHURCHES GUARANTEE FUND

Arrangements Being Made to Hold Cottage Prayer Meeting Until
Time of Revival.

Active preparations are being made for the revival meeting which will be held here June 7 to 21 and which will be conducted by the Rev. W. W. Orr, a noted evangelist. Indications are now that a tabernacle will be built on the Mull lot in Perkins street between Second and Third streets.

At a meeting of the finance and place committees Saturday evening it was decided that the churches of the city would be compelled to put up five hundred dollars and guarantee five hundred more before arrangements would be made. That was agreed on at the meeting and the matter was presented to the various church boards of the city yesterday.

All of the churches without exception agreed to put up and guarantee their allotment. The amounts for the various churches is as follows: Main Street Christian, $300; United Presbyterian, $200; St. Paul M. E., $250; First Presbyterian, $200 and the First Baptist, $50. The churches will put up half of that amount and the remainder is guaranteed by them in case it is needed.

It has been estimated that a tabernacle that will cover the Mull lot completely will cost over one thousand dollars. It is said that the material alone will cost about $800. It is expected that the revival meeting will pay its way, but it is deemed best to have a guarantee fund in case the revival contributions are not sufficient to meet the expenses of the meeting.

The regular meeting of the Rushville Ministerial Association was held this afternoon and at that time it was expected that definite arrangements would be made. Plans are being laid for cottage prayer meetings to be held at stated intervals during the time of the revival. It is thought that the program for the prayer meetings will be announced by the press committee tomorrow.

A meeting of the finance and place committee will be held again this evening at Watson, Titsworth & Green's office when the reports from the church boards will be heard and more arrangements will be made. The press committee will meet this evening to outline a campaign.

It was reported at the meeting on Saturday evening that the city council had been seen and that there would probably not be any objection to the erection of the tabernacle in the business district, in case there was no complaint from residents or business men in that vicinity.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION.

Henry Schattner will go to Fort Wayne tomorrow to attend the annual State convention of the C. B. L. of I., a Catholic insurance order. He is a delegate from the local order. A large class of one hundred and fifty candidates will be initiated this year.

Taylor Lloyd was fined one dollar and costs this morning by Squire Kratzer for using profane language in the presence of Mrs. Bert Weaver and Ade Manlove. The two women claim that Lloyd insulted them Saturday night and when arraigned this morning he pleaded guilty. He paid the fine.

The new graded series of lessons will be discussed by a number of persons who have had actual experience with this new and practical method of Bible study. It is urged that every school in the county be well represented. Further announcement will be made.

MINISTER IS IN SERIOUS CONDITION

The Rev. A. N. Marlatt Suffers Second Stroke Which is Very Similar to Paralysis.

IS NOT ABLE TO SPEAK

The Rev. A. N. Marlatt of Connersville, father of Mrs. J. H. Scholl and Miss Anna Marlatt, was stricken with a second attack of aphasia Saturday and is believed to be in a very serious condition. The ailment is bordering on paralysis and members of the family fear that it will mean paralysis and will eventually cause the death of the aged and respected minister. The Rev. Mr. Marlatt suffered a similar attack just four weeks ago, but the last one was more severe. He is conscious all the time but unable to speak or scarcely utter a sound. His friends here will regret that he is in a critical condition. He will be seventy-six years old in June.

WILL APPEAL CASE.

The Connersville News is authority for the statement that Delbert Smiley of Fayette county, who only recently lost a damage suit against John Knecht of Washington township, will appeal the case to a higher court. There were three trials in the case and the result was that the suit cost Smiley about $600.

LOCAL TEAM GOT SECOND PLACE

Connersville Scored a Total of 63
Points and Won Triangular Track and Field Meet.

TODD AND BAILEY THE STARS

Rushville, Followers Well Pleased
With Result Even if They Did Not Win.

The local high school track team won second place, with a total of 28 points in the triangular meet held Saturday in Connersville. The Connersville team was first with 63 points and New Castle, third with 26 points. The locals put up a hard fight and for a time it looked as though they would be winners, but Connersville proved stronger in the dashes and won easily.

Todd of Rushville and Krastin of Connersville were easily the individual stars of the meet. Krastin won firsts in the 440, 880 and 220 yard dashes while Todd won the high jump with four feet, eleven and one-half inches. He also won first in the shot put, placing the pill 38½ feet. In this event Petry won second place. Besides winning two firsts, Todd drew a second in the 220 dash and third in the 50 yard dash. He was perhaps the most consistent winner in the meet and deserves much praise for his work.

Petry won second in the broad jump and third in the 120 yard high hurdles. Bailey of the local team, proved to be a "phenom" on the mile run and won easily. Because of little competition the time was slow and Bailey did not exert himself to the limit. With the form he showed in this event Bailey should be a point winner in any track meet. Alexander for the locals won third in the discus throw and Roam pulled down a third in the pole vault.

Prof. Smelser who has been coaching the local athletes, expressed himself as being well satisfied with their showing. With the small amount of training and experience they have had the result was very pleasing and as individuals the locals were equal to any of those present. The contest was closer than the final result would indicate and at one time New Castle was in the lead. New Castle captured two firsts.

The tennis tournament held in the morning was won by Rushville. In the singles McClanahan defeated Magill of Connersville, 7 to 5 and 6 to 3. In the doubles McClanahan and Frazee won over Magill and Wilkin 6 to 2 and 6 to 4. Prof. Smelser and Mr. Cantwell tied for the first two sets and the third, Smelser won four out of six.

"NEIGHBOR" PAYNE IS ILL

Suffers Stroke, First Thought to be Paralysis.

It was currently rumored about the city yesterday afternoon that George Payne had suffered a stroke of paralysis, but this morning he was able to sit up and feed himself with both hands. "Neighbor" was taken ill yesterday and for a time was unable to hold anything in his hands. His left arm was also affected. This morning he suffered with pains in his head but it is believed that he will soon recover. It is believed that the illness was bordering on a stroke of paralysis. The old negro was born as a slave in North Carolina, and is not certain as to his age.

MEN NARROWLY ESCAPE TRIAL

Criminal Charge Against Garfield
Garrett And Charles Hare Goes Through Unusual Procedure.

DISMISSAL, FINAL RESULT

Jury in State vs. Wallace Disagrees —Case Against Carthage Straw Board Dismissed.

The court was comparatively quiet today with the exception of action taken in several criminal cases. The cases which were set for trial today did not come up for a hearing.

The case of the State against the United States Board & Paper company for stream pollution was erased from the docket on motion of the defendant. It will be remembered that the motion was argued during this term of court and the matter was taken under advisement. The affidavit was filed as a result of the investigation of a representative from the fish and game commissioner's office. It was charged that the Carthage plant of the company allowed the debris from the plant to flow into Big Blue river and kill all of the fish.

Late Saturday evening the jury in the case of the State against L. E. Wallace, charged with assault and battery on Lola VanSickle, disagreed after being out about six hours. The jury's first ballot was eight to four in favor of acquittal. Later the ballots changed to nine to three and remained that way until it was decided that it would be impossible to agree.

The case of the State against Garfield Garrett and Charles Hare, who were charged with assault and battery with intent to commit murder on John Favor of St. Paul, was dismissed by the court this morning. The suit was sent here from Decatur county on a change of venue and its dismissal came about after a rather strange circumstance.

The two men were arrested in Decatur county after the trouble in the January term of the court in 1910. The case never came up that term and was finally set for trial at the next term. The defendants' attorneys asked for a change of venue, it was granted and ten days given to perfect the change. The change was never made, due to the negligence of the Decatur county circuit court clerk and the case passed by four terms of court.

In the meantime a new judge was elected and the case was set down for trial. It was found that a change of venue had been granted and the papers were duly sent here and received last December 24, the last day of that term of court. The defendant's attorneys objected to the case being set for trial in the February term and the result was that the case did not come up for hearing until this term. Then the defendant's attorneys filed a motion to dismiss, referring to the statute which says that a criminal case that goes by three terms without the defendant having anything to do with the delay, shall be dismissed. The State filed a motion in resistance and the argument was heard Saturday. Today the court dismissed the suit.

WARN MINORS.

New Castle Courier: Prominently displayed in every saloon in the city is a printed sign calling the attention of minors that their presence is not desired and that if they attempt to secure drinks they will be vigorously prosecuted. EIGHT HUNDRED ATTENDED

Large Crowd Present For Moscow
Christian Church Dedication.

Approximately eight hundred people attended the dedication of the new Christian church at Moscow yesterday. Several people from here were there for the big basket dinner which was served in the basement of the church. The Rev. A. L. Orcutt of Indianapolis preached in the morning and afternoon, and evening services were held. The church was erected at a cost of four thousand dollars. The basket dinner was the feature of the day's services, according to local people who feasted there.

WOULD HAVE ROAD PAVED WITH STONE

Fifty-Seven Residents of Richland Township File Petition For Highway.

TERMINUS ON COUNTY LINE

A petition for the improvement of a highway in Richland township was filed in the county auditor's office this morning. It is entitled in re petition of Frank Moore et al for the improvement of a highway. There are fifty-seven petitioners, all said to be free holders of the township. The petitioners ask that the road be improved by grading, draining and paving with crushed stone. The petition points out that the road to be improved ends on the Franklin-Rush county line, is less than three miles in length, one terminus is on a free macadam road and that a portion of it is transversed by a free rural mail route.

MAY REMODEL TRACTION CARS

I. & C. to Replace Front Wooden Partition With Plate Glass to Give View of Track.

TO BE TRIED ON ONE COACH

The I. & C. Traction company plans to remodel one of its cars by replacing the partition between the smoking compartment and the motorman's booth with glass. Only one car will be changed this way to be used as an experiment. If it is found to be satisfactory to the company as well as to the traveling public, it is very likely that all of the cars on the two divisions of the line will be remodeled in the same manner.

The change would no doubt, meet with popular approval as it affords passengers with a much better view of the surrounding country, which is one of the pleasures of travel. Other traction lines have tried the same innovation and have found that it is highly convenient. Some travelers contend that they would rather not see ahead of the car and that the plate glass would be more dangerous than the wooden partition in the case of an accident.

PLANTER CLICK, FAMILIAR SOUND

Rush County Farmers Put in Many Hours Each Day to Get Corn in Ground.

IDEAL WEATHER RECENTLY

Experienced Crop Men Say Outlook is Better Now Than it Has Been in Years.

In every quarter of the county the click-click of the corn planter is heard. The farmers are hurrying their corn into the ground as rapidly as possible. The planting has only fairly begun, but the end of another week will be well under way. If the present fine weather continues most of the corn will be planted by May 20. There will be a few farmers who will be behind with their work and not finish planting before the last of the month, but their number will be inconsiderable.

The weather this spring has been reasonably favorable for the preparation of corn ground. At times the rainfall has been a little too heavy and plowing has had to stop, particularly in the low ground, but on the whole conditions have been such as to furnish the farmers with little cause for complaint. Oats were sown early and have made a fine start. The weather has been especially favorable for wheat and nearly every part of the county boasts a number of fields that look particularly promising.

A thing that is particularly pleasing to the farmers of the county is the extraordinary fine condition of their meadows and pastures. The timothy meadows got a good start after last year's mowing, the fall rains bringing them out nicely and putting them in good condition for the winter. Nearly all of them are looking fine now. Clover fields seem to be coming along in good shape and the blue grass pastures never looked better.

As far as blossoms go, the orchards of the county are rich in promise. Nearly every kind of fruit tree is loaded with bloom. Apples, cherries and pears seem to have put forth an unusual wealth of blossoms. The peach trees, too, seem pretty well supplied. This condition encourages a hope that the year will be marked by an abundance of fruits. A large per cent of the farmers have taken to spraying their fruit trees and otherwise safeguarding them against enemies from the insect world. This, with favorable weather conditions, is sure to result in not only an increase in the yield, but an improvement in the quality of Rush county fruit.

Theosophical Leader Predicts Early Reincarnation of Christ.

THE SECOND COMING OF CHRIST IS NEAR

According to the Prediction of Mrs. Besant.

London, May 15.—Annie Besant, the theosophical leader, who is here from India, announces the impending reincarnation of Christ.

"Everything tends to show that the time is at hand," she said, "for the arrival of the great world teacher. Physical and social changes throughout the world tell us that the age of militarism is closing and that fraternity is to be the watchword. The future Anglo-American peace treaty is one sign, but the world's peace is unachievable politically. It will result in a vast spiritual movement, unifying all warring creeds. This will be the task of the coming teacher prefigured in the Christian dogma as the second coming of Christ. It is not far distant. Then our aeon will close and a new age will open."

HE DIED HARD

Alabama Negro Shoots Five of Posse Before Succumbing.

Montgomery, Ala., May 15.—Barri-caded in a cabin, Tom Benson, a negro, for long successfully defied a posse which sought to arrest him for killing Peter Fols, another negro. He shot down five of his pursuers and only ceased to fight when the posse finally set fire to the cabin.

Jake Primus, a negro, and Eugene Nobbell, Harry McCord, Owen Ellis and James Alford, white deputy sheriffs, were wounded by Benson. Nobbell, McCord and Ellis and Primus will die. Benson killed Fols about twelve miles from Montgomery Sunday morning and fled. The sheriff summoned a posse and chased Benson in an auto. The negro took refuge in a cabin and the posse opened fire on the hut, the negro returning it, and shooting down deputy after deputy.

After two hours of firing a member of the posse managed to fire the cabin. As the flames leaped up the cabin the negro, who was wounded, dashed through the door, being met by a volley. The negro fell just outside the cabin and as he fell, shot Deputy McCord in the abdomen. The posse then poured in another volley, literally tearing the negro's body to pieces.

"Dear Sir—We hate to regulate a good man, so you will please forget the McFarley 'whitecapping' case. A word to the wise, etc.—Harmony Regulators."

Harmony is the neighborhood southwest of here where McFarley resides. Mr. Regester says the receipt of the letter will not cause him to discontinue his efforts against "whitecapping" and that he is not alarmed at the threat.

At 10 o'clock Saturday night Sheriff Browning and Deputy Robinson arrested W. C. Chambers, for whom there was issued a "whitecap" warrant a week before. Chambers had been in hiding from the officers all week, and was found at Ramp Creek church, in the southeast part of the county. The total number of newspapers published in the entire world comprise between 5,500 and 6,000 dailies. Of these over 900 are credited to Germany, 250 to Great Britain, while Paris alone has 150—more than London, New York, Philadelphia and Boston added together. Le Petit Journal of Paris has the largest circulation in the world; but the native dialect papers of India have the greatest number of readers, because they are circulated until completely worn out. The Post Zeitung of Frankfurt, Germany, is the oldest newspaper in Europe; but in China the Kin and P is a thousand years old, and the Tsing Paso, or Peking News, is the oldest newspaper in the world, having been regularly published for nearly 1,000 years. Its circulation is about 10,000. To indicate the extreme care that is exercised in publishing this paper, we should mention the fact that, until recently, at least, instant death was the punishment for an error in printing.

Kid McCoy Finally Loses In Spectacular Battle With Fate

Norman Selby, Rush County Man, Who Blew in Thousands That He Won and Married, Hits the Financial Rocks and is Now a Bankrupt

A sporting writer on the Indianapolis Sun dopes out the following on Kid McCoy, better known as Norman Selby, his true name, in this county where he spent much of his life and where he is extensively related:

Fate has finally thrown the hooks into Kid McCoy.

The Kid says himself that all he has in the world is a ten-dollar note. And he's so heavily in debt that he seeks the bankruptcy courts.

Few men have bucked fate with the consistency of Kid McCoy. He has with joyous consistency handed Father Time a lemon every time they encountered each other. But now he's down and admits it.

If it hadn't been for the fact that early in life the Kid decided to be a prize fighter he might have been one of our leading financiers. In this complex sporting world few men have ever sprung up the equal of getting what he wanted when he wanted it.

There are many people who like Kid McCoy, and there are many people who don't like him. One section doesn't know him real well; take it either way you want to.

But whether they like or dislike, everybody is willing to admit that Norman has a six-cylinder thinking machine on his shoulders. And it is rare that he opens up his muffler to let the wide, wide world hear the explosions. The Kid was always too fine an artist to ever boast of his deeds. But those who know him can tell stories of him by the hour. Bill Pickens of auto racing fame, has one he likes to tell.

"We were down at Hot Springs," says "Pick." "The Kid wasn't at that time what you'd call rich. Of course he had a key-ring and a necktie and a few little things like that, but money, well, it was hard to make the Kid believe there was such a thing. He had a dull, sneaking suspicion that somebody had taken all the money in the world and hidden it in one of the Ozark mountains.

"Well, we walked into the pool room that night at the hotel and a chap we knew insisted that the Kid play pool.

"I will for a hundred on the side," said the Kid.

"They went into it without putting up the money, which was lucky for the Kid. One ball at the finish decided the game. The other fellow missed his shot. The Kid tried and made it, difficult as it was. He pocketed the hundred dollars and we went together.

"What would you have done if you had missed?" I asked McCoy.

"I'd a spit in his eye," said the Kid.

In the fight game the Kid won his reputation as a sharp, quick thinker.

This La Savate game was the rage in Paris when the Kid took a stroll over there. The Frenchmen were betting that no American boxer would go against the kicking-boxing art and beat it. The Kid watched several American ringsters have their heads kicked half off by the nimble-footed Frenchmen and decided to try it.

He got into the ring, shook hands with his opponent and then dropped his hands and stepped away. He looked up at the ceiling and laughed aloud. The Frenchman wondered and still Kid laughed and stared. The puzzled idol of Paris looked up to see what McCoy was laughing at. And as he tilted his head, heard strange music and saw the lights fade.

The Kid had waited until he got that head of his tilted at just the right angle toward the ceiling; then he stepped in and handed him one flush on the law.

It was easy money, but after that you couldn't hire a Frenchman to look at a roof.

They say that the kid was out in Denver once and was very anxious to reach Chicago. He couldn't raise the money so he got on the train, anyway. He waited until an old gentleman next to him went to sleep with his punched ticket in the band of his hat. He took the ticket from its resting place, put it in his own and went his way rejoicing to the next car. The old fellow wasn't bothered, but the conductor kept wondering how in the world nineteen passengers rode on eighteen tickets.

MISS DOROTHY ARNOLD.

New York Heiress Whose Sudden
Disappearance Caused Sensation.

New York, May 15.—The body of a woman, thought by the superintendent of the morgue to be that of Dorothy Arnold, the society girl who disappeared from her home here, 108 East Seventy-ninth street, early last winter, was found floating in the East river off Eighth-ninth street, Sunday afternoon. Coroner's Physician Lehane said the woman found in the water had been dead not less than two months.

NEW "THIRD DEGREE" LAW TO GET A TEST

Indiana University Student the Complainant.

Bloomington, Ind., May 15.—In an affidavit filed against John McCabe, a constable of Bloomington township, by Ira Appleman of Lagrange, an Indiana university student, the allegation made was that he was made the victim of "third degree" methods by the officer.

Appleman says the constable deprived him of necessary sleep by walking him about the streets of Bloomington until 2 o'clock in the morning in an effort to get him to confess petit larceny.

Appleman says he had been accused of taking books. In order to extract a confession from him he says he was walked about until 11 o'clock and that while he was out of his room a $1 bill, which had been marked, was laid on a chair.

When he returned to the room and found no one there, he picked up the bill and says he placed it under his pillow. An affidavit was filed against him for taking the bill, and he says he was walked over the streets until 2 o'clock, while an effort was being made to get him to confess.

He asserts he was taken to a room in a hotel and persistently questioned, and was walked about again, until he became exhausted. When arraigned before the mayor Constable McCabe denied his guilt and his trial was set for May 23. Appleman's trial for petit larceny was set for the same day.

The charge against the constable for his alleged use of the "third degree" is probably the first in the state, under the new law. The penalty for conviction is a fine of from $10 to $50.

Other wealthy students are: Henry Cary Morgan and John S. Morgan, Jr., of New York; Morgan Belmont of New York; William Glover Rueter, Douglas Lawson of Boston and John Angus Milholland.

DESPITE the boasted simplicity of old Harvard, that seat of learning possesses a coterie of wealthy students who in their mode of living vie with the most sybaritical youth of the aristocracy of the countries of the old world. Not for them the plain fare and the modest rooms of the dormitories in the "yard," but handsomely furnished apartments, dainty food prepared by chefs of reputation, valets, motorcars and a dozen other luxuries of life.

It has been estimated that included in the 4,000 students in the university there are perhaps 400 of them whose combined wealth will some day exceed $500,000,000—this, of course, not in their own right, but as representing the amount they will inherit from their parents and other relatives.

Cruisers Along "Gold Coast."

The most exclusive of these dormitories is Westmorely Court. Here lives the youth who is reputed to be the richest student in Harvard in his own right as well as a prince of the royal blood, and among them all they are the possessors of thirty automobiles. Marshall S. Winpenny of Philadelphia is the one credited with the most wealth. He has between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 and is credited with possessing an allowance of something like $25,000 or $30,000 a year. He is a third year man in the law school, of studious habits and leading a very safe and sane existence. Unlike a large number of his friends in the university, he is without the luxury of a motorcar, but he is charged with the extravagance of using soap that costs $4.50 a box of three cakes.

The prince of the blood is Jaisint Gaekwar, son of the king of Baroda and one of the most interesting personalities in the student roll. To his intimates he is known as "Jake," and he managed without any difficulty to spend something like $25,000 a year on his personal needs when he first went to Cambridge. Indeed, so hot a pace did the young man set that his American guardian, Professor H. C. Bumpus of the Museum of Natural History in New York, called a halt on his extravagance and had his allowance cut down to a pitiful $125 a month. A personal guardian was also placed over Jake in the person of Bob Potter of Philadelphia, Harvard's star second baseman, to whom his princely must report daily.

Another of Westmorely's richest residents is Pierre Abreu, a freshman, son of Mrs. Rosalia Abreu of Palatinio, Havana, Cuba, and of New York and Paris also. Abreu enjoys an income of $20,000 a year and has recently added to his comfort and enjoyment by the purchase of a $6,000 automobile. Then there is J. Francis Flanagan, son of the Boston stockbroker, who holds the college record by owning eight motorcars of various types. He worries along on $15,000 a year. His father also has the automobile mania and owns the largest garage in New England as well as the finest private swimming pool.

Romance In Exclusive Hall.

Westmorely also had the distinction of housing two young men who got into the public prints by being principals in more or less romantic elopements. One of them, Nelson Gammons, son of Mrs. G. G. Gammons of Portland, Ore., ran away a few months ago and married Mrs. Mary Guilfre, former wife of Rufus Gaynor, son of Mayor Gaynor of New York. It was not a popular proceeding with his mother, who promptly tied her purse strings, with the result that young Gammons had to go to work to support his wife. He is now putting in several hours a day in the automobile establishment of J. Frank Cutler in Boston, where he earns $10 a week as an assistant bookkeeper and general man of all work.

The second eloper, Graham Glass, Jr., was also from Portland. Glass acquired a wife in the person of Miss Helen Roche after a midnight ride to Nashua, N. H. As in his fellow townsman's case, the home purse strings had a double knot tied in them, and Glass, finding himself facing the alternative of getting $500 a month and continuing his college career or of getting only $5 a week with board and washing if he stuck to his wife, chose the former. Young Mrs. Glass therefore filed a bill of divorce, which is expected to reach trial very soon.

The foregoing list does not by any means exhaust the names of Westmorely's rich patrons. Others who enjoy incomes between $5,000 and $10,000 are Frank Myers of Bethlehem, Pa.; Jimmy Brownlee of Spokane, Wash.; Samuel ("Bass") Warner, who gets his nickname through his father's connection with Bass' ale, and the Ogden boys of Texas.

"Runners Up" For Winpenny.

While it is generally conceded that Winpenny is the richest man in the university, he is run a good second by William Astor Drayton, a relative of John Jacob Astor. Drayton, a member of the exclusive Union club of New York, has a private fortune estimated at from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000, from which he has an allowance of $25,000 a year during his college days. He has a decided penchant for automobile rides, which are said to cost him about $600 a month, and a pretty taste in seascapes, with which the walls of his apartment are covered. Many of the pictures he acquired in Europe last summer when he and a party of friends crossed the ocean in a forty-five foot sloop.

Drayton lives at Randolph Hall, where he has as neighbors Henry Cary Morgan and J. S. Morgan, Jr., both relatives of J. Pierpont Morgan; Morgan Belmont, son of August Belmont; William Glover Rueter of the brewery family of that name; Douglas Lawson, son of Tom Lawson, and John Angus Milholland, brother of Miss Inez Milholland, the militant suffragette of Vassar.

In Russell Hall there is Herbert Weitzel of Detroit, who is on a footing with Winpenny and Drayton as regards his allowance, which is $25,000. Weitzel has planned a European automobile trip for this summer and has already engaged passage on the Ivernia for himself and two automobiles. Geoff Biddle of Philadelphia, brother of Tony Biddle, the society boxer, and himself no mean exponent of the manly art, also lives in Russell.

While there are not quite so many rich men in Claverly as in the other dormitories along the "Gold Coast," that hall has the distinction of sheltering Kermit Roosevelt, son of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. Kermit probably has a smaller income than any man in the four exclusive halls, but what he lacks in money he makes up in popularity.

"Gold Coasters'" Advantages.

It is the general belief of the public that all Harvard students eat together in Memorial Hall, or Randolph, but this is not so as regards the "Coast" residents. In each of the four exclusive dormitories named there are large dining rooms where the men have their meals or else enjoy something brought in from expensive caterers in the seclusion of their own apartments. All the dormitories have swimming pools. Comfortable lounging rooms are furnished with luxurious divans and easy chairs, while potted plants and palms, pictures, etc., lend an air of luxury.

Another advantage enjoyed by the "Gold Coasters" is that in each dormitory are located tutors, some of them former instructors in the university, who have a wonderful way of forecasting just about what questions will be asked at the midyear and final examinations. Their services come high, but they can start on a man only two or three weeks before "exams" and pull him through with passable marks, so they are indispensable.

DEATH AFTER PASSION PLAY.

Indian Had Himself Nailed to Cross and Got Blood Poison.

Ciriaco Cornejo, a Texpan Indian, who took the part of Christ in the annual holy week Passion play at the town of Texpan, in the southern part of Mexico, is dead as the result of his insistence that his hands be nailed to the cross in the crucifixion scene.

Cornejo was a religious enthusiast and was not content to be tied to the cross, as had been the custom in previous years. He insisted that nails be driven through his hands. The nails used were rusty, and blood poisoning developed.

The house has voted to investigate the sugar trust. We hope they get after these people that sell sweetened flour as powdered sugar.

Gen. Woods says disarmament is only a dream of dreamers. But if people never did any dreaming, we would still be living in caves.

The grand jury says there is no crime wave in New York, but they can hardly deny that there is a perpetual high tide of naughtiness.

The people who vowed not to cut their hair until Senator Lorimer and President Diaz resign seem likely to save barbers' bills for some time.

Many Americans are being presented to King George. They probably do their best to conceal the damning fact that they were born here.

After Mr. Madero becomes president, the idea that he alone should have the right to do any voting may look just as good to him as it did to Mr. Diaz.

The Democrats are trying on the surface to capture the farmer vote, but when they think no one is listening they keep jeering at Uncle Reuben's whiskers.

Congressmen are praising themselves in the Congressional directory. Who can blame them for kindling a little incense to offset the offerings of venerable eggs and vegetables?

The Mexican rebels, having captured Juraz, want to be "recognized." Having only seen their features peeping out from behind some tree on a dark night, we find it difficult to do so.

Fourteen vote sellers get five years disfranchisement at Portsmouth, Ohio. Now will the vote buyers get the same exact justice, or will they continue to be leaders of our political thought?

Wireless telegraph was a factor in rescuing 360 people on the steamer Merida, but lots of passenger vessels are roaming the coast with no means of asking help, but throwing a bottle over with a message inside.

Governor Woodrow Wilson has "apologized" to the students of Princeton because of twenty years he preached to them that the initiative, referendum and recall were "all bosh," says the Marion Chronicle. The governor says he has seen a great light. A candidacy for office not infrequently requires the candidate to believe what he supposes a majority of his prospective constituents want him to believe.

The Indianapolis Sun comes to the defense of the last Indiana General Assembly and resents the criticisms made of it by Indiana newspapers. These papers should cease making the Sun feel peevish by saying anything to the detriment of a body controlled by a corrupt and corrupting special interest, so near and dear to the Sun, that it is continually lambasting all the other special interests in the effort to beloud its relations with the particular branch of Big Business from which it gets its orders. The invisible government of the Indiana brewery machine is not at all invisible as reflected in the proceedings of the Sun.—Marion Chronicle.

The Daily Republican happened to be one of the three Indiana newspapers referred to in the scathing denunciation of the so-called tory papers in an Indianapolis Sun editorial last Friday evening. The other two papers were the Frankfort News and the Fort Wayne News. The small editorial writer on the Sun says the clipping from the Republican is pure ignorance and taking a tip from him we declare that we can tell little about that which he devotes two columns to in the Sun. It may be ignorance, but we will have to have better authority before we are made to believe it.

The right honorable editorial writer spouts at length about the people. We feel sure that the dear public appreciates that and that the Sun's subscription list will be increased by at least two in the next two or three days. In one instant he upholds Gov. Harmon and in the next breath says that the Sun does not admire the Governor since he is connected with the reactionary wing of the Democratic party. Why then can the governor be aligned with such interests and at the same time uphold so many progressive ideas and foster so many bills that are for the benefit of the dear public as are pointed to at length in the Sun's editorial?

The Sun should come out and admit it. Why pose as an insurgent organ? The Democratic stamp is all over it and the rooster almost crows between the lines.

* EDITORIALETTES. *

On these beautiful days of sunshine, if you have a foot in the grave, pull it out.

On such a day as this we feel so lazy that we are most tempted to spell it "thru" and "thot."

Acting according to the best newspaper etiquette, we felt it was best not mention that "ten dollar" episode recently.

And again there is a chance of being worsted if that "exclusive" idea is to be worked overtime.

Perhaps to the fellow who blows his own horn, the noise is so deafening. But to the people, who must listen—gee, it's faint.

"Mother has a new spring hat; so has sister Jo. Father wears the same straw lid he got two years ago." Respectfully submitted by the Kokomo Tribune, the chief warbler of this district.

After all these individual banks with women at the head are not so safe. At least that Rushville young man did not knd it so.

* WRITES HUMOROUS BOOK. *

A copy of "It Tickled Him," by George Hoyt Allen, which is a condensed series of funny stories relating incidents encountered in a trip around the world by the author, may be had for the asking at George C. Wyatt & Company's furniture store. Mr. Allen has written other books which have all ranked with the best humorous stories of the time. His latest work is decidedly funny and shows the careful work of a close observer. He made a trip through all of the foreign countries and chronicled that which appealed to his humorous nature, which is all that the word humorous implies. The book is well worth reading. It may be had free by calling at the local furniture store. They have only a small number and those who call first will be accommodated.

ALLEGES WOMAN DESTROYED HOME

Martha E. Alpaugh of Knightstown Files Sensational Charges Against Winchester Resident.

SAYS SHE ENTICED HUSBAND

Three Court Actions Result From Alleged Alienation of a Man's Affections.

Suits with some sensational details for damages and to set aside conveyance have been filed in the Randolph circuit court by Martha E. Alpaugh, of Knightstown, against Maggie D. Abernathy of near Winchester, says the Winchester Herald. In the suit for damages, Mrs. Alpaugh alleges that her husband was enticed away from her by the defendant. The complaint states that Mr. and Mrs. Alpaugh were married in 1874 and lived happily together until 1906, when the husband left the plaintiff, being induced and enticed to do so by the defendant in this case.

It is also alleged that after this Alpaugh lived with the defendant, and he made his home at various times in Muncie, Windfall, Tipton, and Kokomo. The complaint alleges further that Mr. Alpaugh died in March of the present year and asks for $10,000 damages for the alleged destruction of the plaintiff's affections and the happiness of her home and the suffering which followed.

In the suit to set aside conveyance it is alleged that October 27, 1910, the deceased Alpaugh purchased 80 acres of land paying for it $9,000, and causing the title to be made in the name of the defendant, Maggie Abernathy for the purpose of defrauding the plaintiff of her share in the estate. Mrs. Alpaugh says that her interest in this amounts to $3,000 and she says that the defendant accepted the title to the land with the full knowledge that it was a fraudulent attempt to remove the plaintiff's interest in the case. It is said that Alpaugh paid $3000 in cash for the farm and that it was mortgaged for the remaining $6,000.

The third suit has been filed by Abraham Sheely, administrator of the estate by Joseph Alpaugh against H. E. McNeese, and this grew out of the same series of incidents. By an agreement reached among the heirs of the estate Mr. McNeese was permitted to dispose of the personal property for the purpose of dividing it among the heirs. The suit is now being brought by the administrator to get possession of the personal property going with the estate. The amount is said to be about $2,500.

PAYS SUICIDE'S POLICY

Insurance Company Settles With Administrator After Man Takes Life.

Dr. F. J. Drake, of Knightstown, has received a draft from the Prudential Life Insurance Company for $500 upon the life of Ivo Bernardini. He was an Italian laborer, who worked on the Pennsylvania railroad, and shot himself on Easter Sunday, after shooting Mrs. Fred Smith and dangerously assaulting her husband, and died from his wound the following Wednesday. After the suicide Dr. Drake was appointed administrator and collected the insurance, sending most of it to the man's relatives in Italy. There was much speculation at the time as to whether or not the company would pay the insurance after a suicide.

LIVED TOGETHER BUT NEVER SPOKE

A Spiceland Home Sheltered a Rare Couple and Unusual Life Comes to End in Court.

WIFE IS GRANTED DIVORCE

By his own admission in the circuit court Saturday, William F. Chew of Spiceland, branded himself as a very profane man and he said he did not care who knew it, says the New Castle Courier. He testified that he swore about his home, in the fields, on the street or any place else that he wanted to, but he didn't want to just then—not right in court. He was the defendant in a rather novel divorce suit and when first served with the writs he informed Sheriff Kirk that he would die before he would come to court, but changed his mind.

Mrs. Chew was present and related her story of abuse in the absence of her husband and a writ of attachment was issued. The sheriff, accompanied by two other officers, heavily armed, went to Spiceland after Chew. As soon as he saw the officers he wilted and took a joy ride to New Castle.

Chew and his wife never separated. They live in the same house, eat at the same table, but do not speak. He testified that so far as he was concerned his wife could continue to remain there if she wanted to.

HORSE NOTES

(Western Horseman.)

Dick Wilson is going slow with the horses which he has in training at Hood River, Oregon. A colt by Hedgewood Boy out of Lady Patchen, by The Patchen Boy, stepped an eighth recently in 22 seconds and is a very strong and handsome youngster.

C. D. Alter of Rushville, Ind., reports that his mare, Daisy, by Little Wonder, on April 19 foaled a fine black colt by Homer Dunlancy, which stands 39 inches high, has an extra fine head and is a natural pacer. The oldest colt by Homer Dunlancy, is a four-year-old which last August worked in 2:17 1/4. One of his three-year-olds worked a quarter in 34 seconds with thirty days' work, and Mr. Alter says he knows that at least four of his colts should go in the list if given a chance, and believes that there are others that could do the trick. These colts make their speed very rapidly and do not have to be trained all summer.

Dave Wagoner, Manilla, Ind., is very busy these days with a lot of extra good prospects. Bob Braden, by Gusto, a seven-year-old trotter, is a handsome, rugged horse, 16 hands high, with fine action, that is already beating 2:30. Little Harry is a full brother to Little Trouble, 2:14 1/4, by Kellar Thomas, and is a promising candidate for the green trots. He has worked 2:45 and quarters in 37 seconds. Billy H. is a six-year-old green pacer by Wiltrany that last season trialed in 2:16. Woodcliffe Queen is a full sister to Woodcliffe King, to which Dave gave a three-year-old record of 2:16 1/4 over a half-mile track. She goes at the trot and has been miles this spring in 2:50 and quarters in 38 seconds. Lena N., 2:19 1/4, by George W. Lederer, which took her record at New Castle, Ind., in 1907, acts as though she would be good in her class this year. He has several colts that are coming along nicely.

SAYS HIS WIFE WAS INSANELY JEALOUS

Ora W. Herkless Files Suit For Divorce From His Wife, Ozella Herkless This Afternoon.

ALLEGES SHE SPIED ON HIM

Alleging that his wife was insanely jealous, Ora W. Herkless filed suit in the circuit court this afternoon against his wife, Ozella Herkless. The complaint states that they were married in November, 1907, and lived together until today, when they separated for good. Mr. Herkless alleges that his wife treated him cruelly and inhumanly and often made unjust accusations against him. He declares that she had a high temper and quarreled with him almost continually. The plaintiff asserts that his wife often followed him to work and spied on him. Megee & Kiplinger are attorneys for the plaintiff.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD YESTERDAY

Diapason Singers Assembled in Main Street Christian Church and Render Fine Program.

AUDIENCE WAS WELL PLEASED

The eleventh annual meeting of the Diapason singers was held yesterday afternoon in the Main Street Christian church. The meeting was one of the best ever held and was enthusiastic throughout. An appreciative audience heard the singers who, under the direction of John Spurrier of this city, rendered a fine program. Several singers were unable to be present, including D. Dudgeon of Franklin, who organized the class in 1861. But many from a distance were in attendance and the singers showed that they had not lost their voices and were still to be classed as entertaining singers. Several from this city are preparing to attend the Diapason reunion in Morristown next Sunday.

MET IN SPECIAL SESSION

County Commissioners Named Viewers of Two Roads.

The county commissioners met in special session this afternoon and appointed John W. Anderson and John H. Frazee viewers of the Ora Logan highway. The same two men were also appointed viewers of the J. W. Amos road. The commissioners adjourned to meet Tuesday, May 23.

ROBBERIES MYSTERY.

The New Castle Times says: The authorities have been unable to make any headway toward making any arrests in connection with the robbery of the T. H. I. & E. traction station and the forcing of doors of business houses in East Broad street and at Spiceland. It is doubtful if those guilty of these robberies will be apprehended as the police had absolutely no clues to work on.

WINSHIP GETS CONTRACT.

New Castle Courier: Charles W. Mouch awarded the contract for his new business block on Broad street to Winship & Son of Rushville, Wednesday evening, and work will be commenced as soon as the present tenants of the frame buildings now on the ground vacate. The bid was not made public. The new business block will be erected on what is known as the Ehman property, immediately west of the Courier office.

SOCIETY NEWS

Mrs. C. B. Lore entertained the Five Hundred club this afternoon at her home in West First street.

Walter L. West was very delightfully surprised at his home in East Eighth street Saturday night, the occasion being his sixty-fourth birthday anniversary. A large number of guests from Indianapolis were here. The affair was arranged by the two children of Mr. West and was a huge success. He delivered the ice cream for the party to another home in the neighborhood, not realizing that it was to be eaten at the celebration of his own birthday anniversary.

Over two hundred women were entertained by the Knightstown club women Saturday when the annual meeting of the Henry County Federation of Women's clubs was held. The sessions were held in the Odd Fellows building.

A short program was given in the morning, ending with the election of officers before adjournment at noon. In the afternoon the program was of much interest to the ladies, and especially so was the address delivered by Mrs. Grace Julian Clark of Indianapolis, president of the Indiana Federation of Clubs, who has a wide reputation as an active worker in women's club work.

Mrs. H. H. Stretch of New Castle participated in the morning program and in the afternoon Mrs. Thomas Maguire and Mrs. Will M. Bunch of New Castle were on the program. Clubs of New Castle, Middletown, Spiceland, Rich Square, New Lisbon and Lewisville were represented at the meeting.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace will be dark this week with the exception of Saturday. The management will make some improvements and repairs on the interior and will open up for business with regular Saturday matinee.

The Portola Photoplay will have a Biograph and a Pathe film for tonight. The Biograph is entitled "Priscilla's April Fool Joke." The joke is a good one but turns out to be rather serious. The Pathe, "Athalarh" is an Egyptian story. Charles VanCamp will sing the illustrated song.

The Vaudet will show three reels of pictures on tonight's program. The Reliance, "A Trick of Fortune" is a comedy drama and is said to be very interestingly portrayed. It is a story that will appeal to all, according to the management. The Solax, "Mixed Pets," is a comedy and is said to present a story that includes some very funny incidents. "Was it Worth While?" is a Nestor drama and is declared to be as good as any ever reproduced by that company.

The Star Grand will present three pictures tonight. The first is a Thanhouser entitled "For Her Sake." In this you see the best kind of war subject, that which passes over pretty effects long enough to play up a plot. The beauty of the present theme is largely in its simplicity. Is there anything simpler to imagine than the death of a mutual loved one should bring together enemies? With this as the idea the picture tells a moral that is worth something. The second picture is a Solax comedy entitled "She Was Not Afraid," and the third picture is also a Solax comedy entitled "A Package of Trouble." It is a merry little comedy just to make you laugh. Earl Robertson will sing "I'll Meet You When the Sun Goes Down."

CHAPTER XXV.

THROUGH the dark woods at Forest Lakes there came hurrying from the northern boundary of the estate an active figure, making his way steadily toward the big graystone house. Occasionally in the denser shadows he stopped to listen. He knew that a dozen or so of picked mountaineers had been left on guard, flintlike men, who would much rather shoot first and inquire afterward in these troubled times. He was congratulating himself upon his good fortune in escaping these men when as he rounded the corner of the house two of them stepped forward with leveled guns.

"Throw up your hands! Come in the light!" commanded the one nearest him and flashed the glow of an electric pocket lantern in his direction. "Are you Sumner Rollins?"

"Yes," replied Rollins, relieved, and began to lower his hands.

"Hold up your hands! Wait a minute!"

Rollins instantly raised his hands again, feeling rather ridiculous, while the guard stepped to the door and rang the bell. He had no more than rung it when the door opened and Elsie White stood revealed in the flood of light.

"Come in, Mr. Rollins," she cheerily invited. "I have been waiting for you these three nights."

"Waiting for me?" he exclaimed as he strode up and took both her hands in his own. "I don't see how that could be. I have been trying for a week to get word to you, but could find no way. I knew that with the telegraph control in the hands of Blagg no message was safe. How did you find out that I was coming?"

"I don't know," replied Elsie, dropping her eyes as she gently disengaged her hands and closed the door. "I just seemed to know it. You see"—and now she looked up at him frankly—"I knew that you were aware of our danger."

The light of joy leaped into his eyes. Once more he caught at her hands, and she blushed as she drew them behind her.

"They are waiting for you," she said. "I think that the danger is growing very near. There are armed soldiers just about a mile south of the gate."

"I thought I heard a murmur of voices as I came through the woods from the north," said Rollins, puzzled again, "but the sound seemed to come from the east, and it seemed to me, too, that an orderly night march of disciplined men would not betray itself in that way."

Elsie had opened the door of the library, and the tableau that met Rollins' gaze was so startling that he stopped transfixed. Behind the long library table at the far end of the room in a high backed chair sat old Henry Breed, the richly jeweled crown upon his jerkily nodding head, the robe of ermine and carmine upon his emaciated form, the diamond tipped scepter in his hand. At one end of the table sat Jens Nelson and at the other end Dr. Zephan, peering through his thick spectacles at Rollins and grinning through his bushy red beard, while Mrs. Rensselaer sat aloof in a corner, thinking her own thoughts.

"Welcome to our court!" cackled Breed. "Welcome to our court! What plenipotentiary have we here?" and his head nodded so violently that the heavy crown jerked off and fell upon the table.

Dr. Zephan calmly caught it as it was about to roll to the floor, carefully pushed out a dent that had been made in the soft gold and restored the crown to Breed, who, after many bobbing attempts, placed it again upon his head.

"I shall examine the envoy's credentials and present him to your majesty in due time and form," sonorously announced Zephan, with an evident enjoyment of the mockery that Rollins, in his shocked abhorrence, could not understand.

"Quite right," agreed Breed. "Quite right. Let all things be done in due form," and, apparently resolved not to interfere with proper observances, Breed drew his old, well worn Bible to him and began to mumble to himself garbled quotations, of which vengeance was the chief burden.

"I am the prime minister," Zephan stated with burlesque gravity, arising and shaking hands with Rollins. "Our friend Jens, here, is the lord high chamberlain. Mrs. Rensselaer is the first lady in waiting. If you behave yourself, Rollins, we'll make you a duke or an earl or something. Pick out your title—anything you please."

Rollins smiled thinly, but he could not take his eyes nor his mind from the appalling wreck of Henry Breed.

"WELCOME TO OUR COURT!" CACKLED BREED.

the richest man the world had ever known or perhaps ever would know, the man who, starting without a dollar, had in the course of an ordinary lifetime compassed half the wealth of a nation to his own use and through that half controlled the balance of it. And he was come to this end!

Nelson roused Rollins to immediate business.

"What is the news?" he asked abruptly.

Rollins turned to him with relief.

"I have a force of more than fifteen hundred good, solid men who will be here inside of half an hour to protect the vaults. I am quite sure that an attack will be made upon them tonight. I have been collecting my forces for a week against this moment and watching Kelvin through the spy of whom you told me. When they got the Gatlings into the garage today I knew the time was growing very short. We made a forced march tonight, making a straight cut to get here."

"They have Gatlings, you say?" asked Nelson, troubled.

"Fourteen of them from the government arsenal mounted in automobiles. If my men get here in time I want to ambush the expedition from behind the wall and have my sharpshooters puncture their tires and pick off their gunners. Kelvin is to be among them. If we can capture him the whole problem is solved."

"But they have Gatlings," protested Nelson.

"We have ambush and strategy," insisted Rollins confidently. "If only my forces can arrive in time!"

"You have done wonders," said Nelson admiringly. "How have you managed it? I thought we were helpless."

Rollins shrugged his shoulders.

"Kelvin had one enemy he could not throttle, and that was the American press, which, after all, is the staunch foundation upon which our liberty has been founded and upheld. Upon the instant of his proclamation Kelvin had a censor ready to take ostensible charge of every newspaper office in the United States. He might as well have put infants there. In some cases the censors were intimidated, in others they were hoodwinked, in others they were bound and gagged and in some places killed. The eastern newspapers on the very first day issued my call to arms, and, though the telegraph was closed to us, within two days the appeal was being printed in Chicago and St. Louis, spreading farther west every day since the proclamation. In every village and every country settlement men are arming—the sort of men who always respond to the call of patriotism, the sort of men who know when their country and their homes are in danger and who are willing to die to defend them. Nelson, you can't whip men like that!"

Zephan, whose whole bearing until now had been like the flippancy of an overgrown, mischievous schoolboy, smiled and nodded his head approvingly.

"It is the existence of such men as these followers of yours and yourself, Rollins, that reconciles me to America," he admitted. "I have damned you as a whole more than once as being a race of people who are plunging themselves into nerve bankruptcy; but, after all, there is something in the fundamentals of this country different from any other nation. There is a healthiness in the

GOOD NEWS FOR CATARRH SUFFERERS

So many hundreds of catarrh victims who have taken the Hyomei treatment, have written thanking us for publishing our method of taking the Hyomei vapor treatment in connection with the inhaler that we gladly publish it again.

The vapor treatment is especially recommended in stubborn cases of chronic catarrh of long standing, but remember that the inhaler should be used daily as usual.

This treatment only takes five minutes time before going to bed. Pour a teaspoonful of Hyomei into a bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe for several minutes the vapor that arises.

You will be surprised at the result of this treatment; it makes the head feel fine and clear; you will sleep better, and that stuffed up feeling will gradually disappear.

This method will break up the worst cold in the head in one night.

A bottle of Hyomei costs 50 cents at F. B. Johnson & Co. who guarantee it. Complete outfit, which includes the little pocket inhaler, costs $1.00.

No stomach dosing; just breathe Hyomei and cure catarrh and all diseases of the breathing organs. Free trial bottle by addressing Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

body politic which, if nature be given a chance, can throw off all its cancers. America needs just some such eruption as this to clear her blood and let the healthy molecules like you and Nelson here get to work. Nelson was fortunate enough to earn the scholarship grade entitling him to be supported by Breed through his college career and conceived himself bound in simple loyalty! Strange, isn't it?"

"I know," nodded Rollins, with a kindly glance at Jens. "Breed gave him to me for my secretary, and he was a spy on all my acts."

"He was more than that," went on the doctor. "He was passed on to Kelvin when Phillip I. became president, and when Jens found that Kelvin actually meant to declare himself emperor, to the exclusion of Breed and everybody else, he set up a system of spies of his own and helped Blagg place the bombs that were intended to blow Kelvin out of his throne! All this, mind you, in spite of the fact that he does not quite approve of everything that has been done by our royal friend back here and that he does not believe any one man should control so much cash."

"Cash!" suddenly broke in the shrill voice of Breed, and the crown bumped from his glistening bald head upon the table in front of him and rolled to the floor. "Cash!" and his wrinkled old face weakened into an expression of desperate intentness. "The greatest force in all the world—the power that can totter thrones and disrupt governments; that can cause wars and support them and end them; that can build cities and devastate them! Cash!" His voice rose in a shrill crescendo, but before its quaverings had ceased there came another sound much more startling—the unmistakable, never to be forgotten "Marsellaise!"

There came a loud cheer, impregnated with the same fury as the song, and then the blows of rails and logs upon the heavy iron gates, a fusillade of shots from the rifles of the guards, screams of agony and answering shots. "Too late!" groaned Rollins. "It is not Kelvin's army, but Blagg's! God help us!"

A piercing scream, as if it might have been that of a cat in mortal anguish, came from the end of the room where Henry Breed sat alone nodding his head and mumbling and moving in his pitiful pomp.

"Cash!" he shrieked. "My cash!" There was a metallic crash and another mad cheer. The gates had given way, and then the mob came pouring in. Rollins, who was unconsciously reaching for his pistol, found his fingers caught in a soft hand and felt a gentle pull. He obeyed the tugging immediately and allowed himself to be led toward the rear of the building.

"This way," Elsie White urged. "I must hide you."

"My men!" he protested. "They should be approaching the grounds by this time, and now I must lead them by a different way."

"Don't go!" she begged of him. "If they see you crossing the open spaces they will chase you and shoot you as they would a wild animal."

"I cannot help it," he answered calmly. "I must go."

He raced on through to the kitchen hall, but he did not let go of her hand, and now it was he who led. He reached the rear door and threw it open.

"Come!" he said simply.

She looked up at him a moment and then gently stepped out beside him, closing the door after her. He paused for a moment with sudden mastery to gather her in his arms, and for just that moment she laid her head in surrender upon his shoulder. She knew now that her dreams of Kelvin had been but the outcome of a youthful ideal—an ideal which had made her see Phillip through distorted eyes, which had clouded her vision to this sterling love.

"It looks like desertion," said Rollins, "but we can do no good here."

He struck out with her along the path, but she pulled against his direction.

"This way," she insisted, "straight back from the house to the garden and around past the kennels. Then we can be under cover all the way."

In the meantime in the library the voice of Jens Nelson, cool and collected, inquired:

"How shall we prepare to die—standing or crouching?"

Dr. Zephan, standing where he had been, looked swiftly about the room. They two were the only occupants. Two sharp, resounding shots echoed just outside the hall door.

"The guards!" exclaimed Zephan. "They are still at the door. There is a part of your America, the part that I love. What wonderful material for my book. Come! If we must die let us die crouching," and without waiting he raced up the stairs, heading toward the attic.

Nelson hesitated a moment. Two more shots rang out, followed by howls of hate, and then a fusillade of bullets splattered against the walls, crashed through the glass and imbedded themselves with soft thuds into the heavy woodwork of the doors. Nelson hesitated no longer, but followed the doctor.

Mutinous Rebel Chief Repents His Hasty Act.

DECLARES HE MADE A MISTAKE

Calm in Madero's Camp Follows Sensational Revolt Inaugurated by Gen. Orozco, Who Says He Was Offered a Bribe by Peace Go-Between if He Would Pull Off From Madero and Break Up the Revolution.

El Paso, Tex., May 15.—The principal reason no streetcars were operated between El Paso and Juarez Sunday was the fear of contagion, but there was fear also that there might be more rioting and that if Americans flocked to the rebel capital of Mexico they would be in danger. The day passed quietly, however, and the rebels spent the time preparing, many of them, for a march to the south in search of approaching federals. A courier has reported Rabago with 1,200 federals only eighty-one miles away. During the day Pascual Orozco stirred things a bit with a statement that Esquivel Obregon, one of the go-betweens in the peace negotiations, had offered to bribe him if he would pull off from Madero and break up the revolution. It is said also that Obregon if he crosses the border again into Juarez from El Paso.

The story first started that Orozco precipitated the disturbance of Saturday when he sought Madero's arrest and demanded the resignation of the provisional cabinet, because he was paid to do so. Orozco denied this and then made the charge that bribery had been attempted.

Prisoners of War Break Paroles.

General Navarro, commander of the captured federal forces, who escaped from Juarez by swimming the river after Madero had spirited him out of Juarez in an auto to save him from Orozco's vengeance, is exerting his efforts in El Paso to have his former officers returned to Juarez as prisoners of war. When they surrendered in Juarez last week they were all paroled and most of them have come to El Paso and broken their parole. General Navarro says he holds himself ready to return to Juarez at Madero's command.

General Madero confirms the statement that the insurgents secured $9,000 in cash from Paymaster De Costa when they captured Juarez.

Orozco in his statement declared that "I made a mistake and am repentant" relative to his attack on Madero Saturday. As to the bribery charge he says: "I was talking with Obregon and stated that we were short of money and food for the army. Obregon said: 'Oh, never mind; whenever you need money, come to me.'"

Armistice Has Been Broken.

Mexico City, May 15.—The armistice arranged between the government and Figueroa, commanding the rebels in Guerrero, has been broken and there is a strong possibility of an attack upon Mexico City within two weeks if the rebel plans materialize.

DYING MAN'S WHISPER

Led to Arrest of His Widow on Charge of Poisoning Him.

Paducah, Ky., May 15.—The whisper of a dying man to his father that was followed by a searching official investigation resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Edward Griffith at Benton. She is accused of having administered poison in brandy to her husband, a well-known southwestern Kentucky merchant, on the morning of April 20—the date of his sudden death.

It is said Mr. Griffith's dying words whispered to his father were: "She poisoned me."

On the morning of Griffith's death it was announced that heart disease was the cause. Suspicious circumstances and the suddenness of the attack led to investigation by a coroner's jury. The verdict was that death had been caused by strychnine administered in brandy.

Officials declare the strychnine was purchased in Paducah, and they say they expect to arrest the buyer, said to have been a man.

Cashier Admits Shortage.

Frankfort, Ky., May 15.—By order of the state department of Kentucky the State Bank of Willard, Carter county, Ky., has been closed, the official report of the examiner declaring that the cashier O. H. Burley, is short about $5,000. The report alleges that Burley admitted the shortage, but that he charges one of the organizers of the bank with being responsible for the padding of correspondents' accounts in Cincinnati and Louisville.

Switched Around the Meter.

Shelbyville, Ind., May 15.—Isaac Heck paid a fine and costs of $110 for stealing electricity from the Shelbyville Water and Light company. Heck had constructed a pass around the meter at his place of business. It was the third time he had been caught at the trick.

HELD TO ANSWER FOR SPECTACULAR CRIME

Indictments Follow Lynching of Negro in Opera House.

Owensboro, Ky., May 15.—Indictments have been returned here against eighteen well-known citizens of McLean county, growing out of the spectacular lynching of the negro William Potter in the opera house at Livermore about three weeks ago. Three of the indictments charge murder.

The mob's victim was accused of having killed a white man, William Mitchell, outside a poolroom in Livermore. The negro was arrested immediately after the tragedy. When a mob formed the black was concealed in a dressing room in the town theater. The mob found him. The stage of the amusement place was used as a setting for the lynching. Potter was strung up over the orchestra lights. The angry throng in the rear part of the theater filled his body with bullets.

Indignation at the lynching was expressed freely throughout McLean county, and despite the prominence of the men said to have been involved, a grand jury made a thorough investigation. The eighteen indictments followed. The men accused of murder are Clifton and Jesse Schroeder and Lawrence Mitchell.

EVIDENCE CONFLICTS

Defendant in Murder Trial and Witness Tell Different Stories.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 15.—When Dr. John W. Sherman, accused of the murder of his brother-in-law, Thomas B. Norman, took the witness stand in his own behalf he pleaded self-defense. His testimony relating to incidents immediately preceding the killing was contrary to the story told by his chauffeur on the stand. The chauffeur testified that Norman was handing cigars to Sherman, when the latter fired.

CHANGED PLAN OF PRESIDENT

Mrs. Taft Taken Suddenly Ill At New York.

CUT MR. TAFT'S TRIP SHORT

The President Had Planned to Remain Over Night in Harrisburg, Where He Spoke to Trainmen Sunday, but Mrs. Taft's Unfortunate Indisposition Prevented Her Accompanying Him and Caused Him to Hurry Back.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 15.—The program arranged for the president's stay in Harrisburg as the guest of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, was curtailed by the unfortunate recurrence of Mrs. Taft's nervous trouble while at the home of Henry W. Taft in New York. After delivering his address to the trainmen's convention Sunday the president returned to his private car and left immediately for New York in order that he might be with Mrs. Taft. It had been Mrs. Taft's intention to accompany the president here, but her condition compelled her to remain in New York.

The president was at first inclined to cancel the engagement here, but later decided to come to deliver his address to the convention. The physicians in attendance assured the president that Mrs. Taft's illness was not very serious, and he feared a sudden cancellation of the engagement might give ground to unwarranted reports as to her condition. Mrs. Taft will likely stay in New York for three or four days, and if she desires the president to remain with her he will do so unless affairs in Washington make his presence there imperative.

When President Taft arrived here Sunday morning to address the convention of the railway trainmen he was greeted at the station by Governor Tener of Pennsylvania and a committee from the Brotherhood of Trainmen. As he stepped from his car the president was presented with a badge of membership in the general lodge. The president was driven about a mile around the city to the Casino theater, where he spoke. A large crowd lined the streets all the way. Governor Tener introduced the president.

At Henry W. Taft's House.

New York, May 15.—President Taft returned from Harrisburg Sunday night, arriving here shortly after 10 o'clock. Mrs. Taft's condition did not improve during the day, though Dr. Evan said there was no danger. On Saturday night Mrs. Taft attended the dinner given by the Academy of Political Science at the Hotel Astor, at which the president spoke. Upon reaching Henry W. Taft's house she complained of not feeling well. Miss Helen Taft came on from Washington Sunday night.

YOUTHFUL DREAM IS SADLY JOLTED

Rushville Young Man Makes a New Castle Girl His Own Little Private Trust Company.

WAS TO BE AUTUMN WEDDING

He Invests His Savings in Her Savings Bank and Now Regrets His Act.

The New Castle Times rehearses a story of a Rushville young man who is alleged to have lost his heart to a New Castle fair one, started a little bank account with her as the president, cashier and official checker and later regretted his act very much. New Castle has been famed for many things but never before for harboring feminine swindlers. The story reads like this:

A good story of the breaking of a trusting heart with the accompanying feminine infidelity, has just been sprung, although the identity of the victim is being suppressed, other than he was a former Rushville lad who came to New Castle to work. While in the Rose City, it is said, he became enamored of a young lady, who after much solicitation, consented to become an autumn bride.

In order to provide for the future, it is said, the prospective bridegroom decided to pay over his excess wages to his fiancée. Finally, when she had about $50 of the young man's capital laid away, so the story goes, the youth asked for enough money to get himself a suit of clothes. His future partner told him to wait until fall, and refusal to "loosen up" on the financial question.

A week passed, and it is said that the maid then came out decked in the latest spring millinery and dress goods. She next informed her fiancée that she was tired of going with one fellow all the time and wanted a little more company. Then the romance blew up, and the young man went back home, out everything except the experience, which may be cheap enough at that.

HINTED SUICIDE WAS THE CAUSE

Witnesses Declare Connorsville Man Who Was Killed by C. H. & D. Train, Could Have Avoided it.

SON WITNESSED HIS DEATH

It is hinted that suicidal intent was the cause for Ambrose J. Martin, 56 years old, a paper hanger of Connorsville, being killed by C. H. & D. eastbound excursion train at the Connorsville station yesterday morning. Martin was at the station to board the train for Cincinnati. As the excursion train pulled into the station, he started to cross the track directly in front of it. Witnesses say that he was warned of his danger but apparently did not notice it. Instead of attempting to escape death, he seemingly ran right toward the train. Local people who saw the accident declare that he had plenty of time to get out of the path of the onrushing train. Others believe he simply became confused and could not avoid the accident. Martin's son stood by and witnessed the death of his father. The victim's head and one arm was cut off. He is survived by a widow, two daughters and three sons, all of Cincinnati.

Reduced facsimile of cover to Mr. Allen's Book "It Tickled Him" Full size 5 1/2 x 7 1/2, 146 pages Profusely illustrated

OUR BARGAINS IN FURNITURE WILL TICKLE YOU

Come in and we'll convince you. Also, while they last, we will present to every visitor, with our compliments, a copy of George Hoyt Allen's new book,

"IT TICKLED HIM"

Mr. Allen is a friend of ours, and manufactures CEDARINE FURNITURE POLISH. We have read his Cedarine advertisements for many years with keenest relish. He wrote such piping hot ones that the publishers of La Follette's National Magazine hired him to write for their publication a series of letters on a business trip he took around the world last year. Those letters ran in LA FOLLETT'S last year and are now published in book form and fully illustrated. There is not a word of advertising in the book. It's a high-class literary production and the press of the country is ringing with its praises.

HERE ARE A FEW OF THE MANY EDITORIAL COMMENTS ON THE WORK:

From The Chicago Tribune:

"Mr. Allen hit all the high spots with a resounding smash quite unlike anybody else who ever has taken a whirl at this sort of thing, and stirs up the animals to screaming purpose. But go to it. It's great."

From The Boston Globe:

"Mr. Allen's tour led him to Japan, China, the Philippines and other interesting places. The text teems with bright sayings and funny situations."

From The New Haven (Conn.) Register:

"The letters are written in a bright conversational style, which is a welcome change from other volumes written by travelers who insist on incorporating in them what any reader may learn from a guide book."

From Jamestown (N. Y.) Journal:

"But with all the laughs there is a fund of information and a bit of moralizing that will stick to the reader's intellectual ribs a lot more effectively as Mr. Allen mixes them with 'milk of human kindness,' than they do when fed in the ordinary 'dry' state. Read the book and then you will know why 'It Tickled Him.'"

From The New York Daily World:

"He has made a rapid-fire account of his world-girdling in a small book, 'It Tickled Him.' A personal joy that will not be denied—joy in trip and story, too—beams from every one of Mr. Allen's 146 pages."

From The Columbus (Ohio) News:

"The Columbus News takes pleasure in congratulating the author, who has stepped out of the beaten path and blazed a trail all for himself in his own peculiar style."

From The Louisville Courier-Journal:

"What he especially sees are strange contrasts that rouse his ire or his laughter. He is a genial traveler. He pretends not to be an erudite one. The passing show is his concern."

From The Evening Call, Woonsocket, R. I.:

"Though he cannot help dispensing a delightful brand of witty comment, he never sacrifices the truth for the trite. The educational value of the work even outweighs its powers of entertainment. The book is an excellent substitute for a voyage to the other end of the world."

From The Laramie (Wyo.) Boomerang:

"The fact of the matter is that it ought to tickle anybody unless he is dead, and then it doesn't make much difference."

"It Tickled Him" is a book for live people, people that have a touch of humor in their cosmos and like, once in a while, to give vent to it."

From The Bridgeport (Conn.) Standard:

"Mr. Allen will give any intelligent reader a pleasant time who journeys with him and lets him tell what tickled him in the aspect of affairs in strange lands."

From The Utica (N. Y.) Daily Press:

"Mr. Allen has the faculty of seeing and describing what some less keenly observant would overlook, and he puts it down with an originality of expression which is certainly charming."

La Follette's says of Mr. Allen:

"He is a keen observer. Few things escape him. He manages to extract a lot of fun out of everything that happens. His philosophy of life is of the wholesome kind. It is contagious. Also he has a sense of humor."
